? What Are They?

UK Government departments.

? Who Can Apply?

Voluntary, community and faith sector organisations, and sometimes local authorities.

? What Do They Fund?

A variety of 'good causes' that lie within the Government's current priorities. The Government increasingly contracts for services with the Voluntary Sector.

Usually through completing an Application Form. Sometimes a business plan is needed. To find out about these funding opportunities, it can help to get involved in appropriate networks.

The exact nature of statutory funding pots depends on the size of grant available.

Large Pots (over £10,000):

- Increasing competition for funds
- Applicants have to fit funders' priorities which are often political
- May have strings attached (e.g. certain level of service required)
- Strict eligibility criteria
- Can have complex application and monitoring procedures
- More of a focus on project / contract funding
- May need Match funding
- Larger applications can be complicated and time consuming

Government Sources of Funding

Small Pots (£10,000 and under):

Pros:

- Quick and Easy
- Staff support often available
- Wide range of causes
- Often local

Cons:

- Small Amounts
- Short Term

The Compact

The Compact is the agreement between government and the voluntary and community sector in England to improve their relationship for mutual advantage.

By building better relationships the Compact can help government and the voluntary and community sector work better together for the communities they serve.

Use the website www.thecompact.org.uk to find out how the Compact can help you.

Local Compacts are being drawn up for dealings between local and regional government and the voluntary sector. These can be downloaded from the regional pages of the Compact website.

There are also resources including 'Introduction to Compacts', a 'Guide to Good Practice', mini guides, posters and glossaries on terms used in this field.

Government Departments

The following information will be updated shortly to take account of changes under the new Government. At the moment Government Department contacts, websites and organisation are still under review.

The duties of some Government Departments are devolved. For further information outside of England see also the Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland pages.

Funding for community groups and voluntary organisations is made by most government departments. Voluntary organisations which work within specialist fields will often gain funding from the government department responsible for their area of work (e.g. Those alleviating poverty overseas will often gain funding from the DFID; Those resettling ex-offenders might gain funding from the Home Office) Funding opportunities will vary over time.

Some Departments only provide funding through Regional Government and Development Offices or through Local Government.

More funding for the Voluntary and Community Sector from central and local government is being made through contracts to provide services. You will need to tender for these and provide services under a commercial style agreement.

Some of the more more important Government departments likely to fund community groups and voluntary organisations are outlined below.

Other Statutory funding and regional information is available separately.
